

Behavioral Market Update

SECOND QUARTER UPDATE: BEHAVIORAL HEALTHCARE MARKET

In recent months, the behavioral healthcare sector has seen significant growth driven by the increasing recognition of mental health disorders, rising awareness and acceptance, and enhanced support from state and federal regulations. This surge in demand for mental health services is attracting considerable interest from dealmakers in the market.

Healthcare costs remain a major concern for all stakeholders—payors, providers, and patients. Solutions that effectively reduce costs while demonstrating proven return on investment metrics are in high demand.

Mental Healthcare Deals

Over the last three months, deals in the mental healthcare space are inclined toward providing comprehensive mental health services across all age groups, focusing on virtual care environments, which have become the new normal post COVID-19. Organizations are also experimenting with new treatments such as transcranial magnetic stimulation therapy and social networking for anonymous texting to address mental health issues.

Following are a few prominent deals:

- Mindbase (Seattle) was acquired by Versaterm via its financial sponsor Banneker Partners. Mindbase provides a mental health and wellness platform that offers real-time emotional support and tracking for first responders.
- Earthman Psychiatry & Addiction Medicine was acquired by Beacon Behavioral Hospital via its financial sponsors Resolute Capital Partners and Latticework Capital Management. Earthman Psychiatry & Addiction Medicine provides transcranial magnetic stimulation therapy for depression, offering neuropsychiatric testing, counseling, and therapy services.
- Headway (Managed Care) raised $100 million from Spark Capital, Accel, Thrive Capital, Global Founders Capital, and Andreessen Horowitz. Headway provides a virtual network of therapists, offering insured video or in-person sessions, thereby helping providers expand their reach and individuals save on mental health care.
- Marigold Health raised $10.89 million from Rock Health Capital, Innospark Ventures, Stand Together Ventures Lab, and other undisclosed investors. Marigold Health offers a social network community that enables anonymous chat support groups therapies, providing support and recovery plans for mental health and substance use.
- Two Chairs received $72 million from Amplo (Spring), What If Ventures, and Fifth Down Capital. Two Chairs provides a mental health platform that pairs patients with ideal therapists and employs measurement-based care for faster improvement.

Addiction Treatment

In the last quarter, the addiction treatment market has been dominated by evidence-based therapies, including evidence-based rehab and other treatments such as Medication-Assisted Treatment (MAT) and Office-Based Opioid Treatment (OBOT). Notable trends also include the digital inclusion of support through social networking and comprehensive online substance abuse programs that merge behavioral therapies, medications, and social support.

Following are a few prominent deals:

- Lionrock Behavioral Health acquired Brightside Health, a substance abuse disorder treatment provider that offers evidence-based rehab, support groups, workshops, and online counseling.
- Myrtle Recovery Centers was acquired by FOXO Technologies. The recovery center based in Oneida, Tennessee, offers MAT, OBOT, detox services, and inpatient behavioral health treatments.
- Sober Sidekick raised $7.03 million from Ikigai Growth Partners, Nina Capital, FortySix Venture Capital, High Street Equity Partners, Suncoast Ventures, and HealthX Venture. This funding supports Sober Sidekick's social networking platform for sobriety, which connects users with a supportive community and resources to quit alcohol and drugs.
- Boulder raised $35 million from Advance Venture Partners, Stripes, Qiming Venture Partners USA, First Round Capital, and Laerdal Million Lives Fund. This funding will enhance Boulder's digital health platform that offers multimodal treatment for substance abuse by incorporating behavioral therapies, medications, and social support.

Autism and Intellectual/Developmental Disabilities

In the last three months, there have been several notable deals in the realm of autism and intellectual/developmental disabilities therapies involving major investors. These investors are also showing increasing interest in telehealth solutions for treating various conditions in children.

Following are a few prominent deals:

- Caravel Autism Health was acquired by GTCR. Caravel is a pediatric therapy operator specializing in personalized, research-based applied behavioral analysis programs for autism.
- Positive Development raised $11.9 million from Healthworx, B Capital Group, and other undisclosed investors. Positive Development provides mental and physical health services for children with developmental differences, promoting growth and independence.
- Prosper Health secured funding from BoxGroup to support its clinical services, which offer affordable autism diagnosis and therapy via telehealth, thereby improving access and affordability.

While the deal market in behavioral healthcare remains active, the last quarter also brought some troubling news. Retreat Behavioral Health abruptly shut down due to financial distress and the deaths of key executives, leaving employees unpaid and facilities closed across multiple states. Although this incident affected the market, other positive developments highlight the dynamic and rapidly evolving landscape of behavioral healthcare, with new investments and innovations continuously shaping the future of this critical sector.

In Q2 2024, the S&P Healthcare Index showed mixed performance across the sector. While healthcare delivered strong results, it lagged sectors such as Information Technology (IT) led by Nvidia and Microsoft. Analyst sentiment was varied, with bullish signals for companies like Pfizer and more cautious outlooks for others. Broader market trends, such as the focus on AI in tech and interest rate expectations, influenced healthcare's relative performance.

While there is positive sentiment around the broader market and mixed sentiment around healthcare, behavioral healthcare companies struggled to perform in Q2 2024. LifeStance Health Group Inc. witnessed its revenue growth by 18.9% year-over-year to $300.44 million in Q1 2024, beating estimates. However, the stock faced pressure from a secondary offering and ongoing legal investigations, impacting investor sentiment.

Acadia Healthcare's Q2 2024 performance witnessed revenue exceed expectations by 3.43%, bolstered by strategic acquisitions and new partnerships. Expansion efforts included new behavioral health facilities and collaborations, reflecting strong growth and investor optimism. Despite this optimism and better-than-expected performance, the stock fell close to 11% from the beginning of the quarter.

While the other two stocks struggled, BrightSpring Health Services gained some traction with investors, rising 4.51% from the beginning of the quarter. After a lackluster IPO, it is moving toward its listing price. Investors have a positive outlook on this stock with performance anticipated to continue improving. Analysts project further earnings growth and have set optimistic price targets. BrightSpring has been active in expanding its services and workforce, recently announcing a definitive agreement to acquire Haven, which will expand its hospice services into Florida, a Certificate of Need (CON) state.
